

Dr. Nathan Fitton is a board-certified family medicine and sports medicine physician and serves as Chief Medical Information Officer for MSU Health Care. He is an Associate Professor at Michigan State University College of Osteopathic Medicine and plays a key leadership role in clinical operations, medical education, and digital health innovation.

Clinically, Dr. Fitton serves as a team physician for Michigan State University athletics, including football, and is Co-Director of the University of Michigan Health–Sparrow Concussion Clinic. His clinical and academic interests focus on concussion management, athlete safety, and the integration of technology and artificial intelligence into sports medicine practice.